

KENV
FM Service
Issues/Program List: 2nd Quarter 2021
April, May and June 2021

Description of the issue:

The Goal for Gender and Race Equality

Program	Date	Time	Description of the Program/Segment
Here & There	04/19/2021	2:35 p.m.	America's slowest campers on the racist right aren't afraid of being eaten by a bear, but being replaced by people of color. Brian Levin, director of the Center for the Study of Hate & Extremism at California State University, San Bernardino on our national outburst of hate crimes. A recent study shows where, geographically the insurrectionists who attacked the Capitol on January 6 came from, and suggests where, ideologically, they're coming from.
51%	05/26/2021	3:00 p.m.	On today's 51%, we speak with Miss New York USA about how beauty pageants can lift up young women. And we'll hear from Miss Wisconsin Earth about how she's representing plus size women on the stage in a time of changing attitudes about pageants.
51%	05/26/2021	3:00 p.m.	On today's 51%, we speak with Miss New York USA about how beauty pageants can lift up young women. And we'll hear from Miss Wisconsin Earth about how she's representing plus size women on the stage in a time of changing attitudes about pageants.

With Good Reason	06/10/2021	3:00 p.m.	Learning to Listen to Patients Dr. Rochanda Mitchell (University of Virginia Health System) Black women are three and a half times more likely to die in childbirth than white women. Even highly educated, wealthy African Americans are at a greater risk than whites. To combat the disparity, Dr. Rochanda Mitchell advocates hiring more African American nurse educators and providing anti-bias training for medical professionals.
Best of Our Knowledge	06/15/2021	3:00 p.m.	LGBTQ advocates are condemning Florida Governor Ron DeSantis's decision to sign into law a bill that bans transgender women and girls from competing on female school sports teams. The signing came on the first day of Pride Month. Whether they are allowed to play sports or not, there are trans children attending schools across the country. These students, as well as all transgender people have specific health care needs as well as just plain old general health care. On this week's show we look at both issues.
With Good Reason	06/26/2021	3:00 p.m.	Jim Crow in the Great Erin Devlin (University of Mary Washington) Camping, hiking, and enjoying the great outdoors are American pastimes. But for African Americans, gathering in public spaces has long been fraught. Erin Devlin discusses the racism that was built into America's national parks.
Best of Our Knowledge	06/29/2021	3:00 p.m.	While transgender students may be the target of new laws around the country, the impact of those laws could spread a lot further. Today on the Best of Our Knowledge, a discussion on LGBTQ dignity.

Description of the issue:

Living with the Impact of COVID-19

Program	Date	Time	Description of the Program/Segment
Southwest Spotlight	04/01/2021	9:00 am	Talked with Dr. Michael Shaughnessy, professor of Psychology, about how to deal with the effects of changing from COVID-19 pandemic quarantine and online communication to returning to more traditional communication in the post-quarantine world
With Good Reason	06/03/2021	3:00 p.m.	The Rise of Telehealth. Karen Rheuban and Laurie Archbald-Pannone (UVA Health). One study found that in the early months of the pandemic, as many as 40% of Americans skipped medical care. But new health insurance coverage of telehealth visits means that there's a better option. UVA Health's Karen Rheuban and Laurie Archbald-Pannone have steered innovative telehealth approaches that bring safe medical care to patients' homes and long-term care facilities.

Description of the issue:

Governmental Matters in New Mexico

Program	Date	Time	Description of the Program/Segment
Here & There with David Marash	04/12/2021	2:35 p.m.	College football and basketball are professional sports, with well-financed coaching contracts and playing facilities. Only the players were treated like amateurs. But is this fair? The debate is on, in the courts, and among administrators and students on college campuses. Craig Garthwaite of the Kellogg School at Northwestern University says the economics of college athletics suffers from a racial imbalance.
Southwest Spotlight	05/12/2021 and 05/14/2021	2:00 pm and 9:00 am	Interviewed Brian Smith of USDA Rural Development concerning obtaining currently available grants to small communities to set up Broadband capabilities, thus facilitating their use of Telemedicine.
Southwest Spotlight	05/16/2021 and 05/18/2021	2:00 pm and 9:00 am	Interviewed Michel Chavis, Director of Student Success and Wellness for the New Mexico Public Education Department, concerning summer food for NM kids. He explained how each family in New Mexico could find free meals this summer.
Here & There	05/17/2021	2:35 p.m.	Of life, it is said, the Lord giveth and taketh away. The same is true of the New Mexico legislature when it comes to transparency. Marjorie Childress of NM in Depth on how accountability for capital outlay allocations was reformed and how some other public expenditures somehow stayed secret -- from you and me. Capital outlay reform took 5 years, cutting a new loophole took about a week. Childress reports, they're both NM law now.

Here & There	06/28/2021	2:35 p.m.	In a society where almost all our most successful people use everything from smart-ass lawyers to easily purchasable legislators to avoid paying a fair share of taxes, it should be no surprise how many cheaters abused the Paycheck Protection Program. Still, Lydia DePillis's reporting on PPP fraud for Pro Publica should be a moral wake-up call. How universal Donald Trump's definition of "being smart" by cheating the government has become!

Description of the issue:

Environmental Issues in New Mexico

Program	Date	Time	Description of the Program/Segment
Here & There	04/05/2021	2:35 p.m.	BP says it is stopping exploration for extractable oil and gas in favor of developing alternative sources of energy like wind and solar. And GM, Volvo and other car-makers say, they're going to switch from gasoline to electric-powered engines. What does this mean for the energy industry and the Land of Enchantment. Janie Chermak energy economist at the University of New Mexico has some ideas.
Here & There	05/24/2021	2:35 p.m.	The Economist called the smartphone "the most successful consumer product in history." Of course, the success the magazine is pointing to is the industrial success in selling smartphones. And not just once, but once every 2 or 3 years -- a new one. And then what? A year ago, Economist Richard Maxwell, co-author (with Tony Miller) of How Green Is Your Smartphone? asked -- how do you dispose of this success? Few smartphone manufacturers seem interested in that question. They ought to be.
Here & There	06/07/2021	2:35 p.m.	Over the past few weeks, the biggest iceberg yet calved off the coast of Antarctica and splashed into the ocean. Also, a death knell was sounded for a huge sheet of ice still attached to Greenland. This could put a literal damper on the boom in beachfront real estate in Australia and the USA. You can't cut any ice in

			New Mexico, but our ever-heating and drying climate creates related problems. Laura Paskus of NM Public TV's Our Land and the online news site Capital and Main tells the climate story.
Here & There	06/21/2021	2:35 p.m.	The State of New Mexico has ambitious goals to reduce its carbon footprint by cutting back on fossil fuels for energy. What are the real-world prospects for success? Hannah Grover covers the local environment for the NM Political Report and the Farmington Daily Times including the highly-touted, but mostly un-proved reasons for a new carbon-capture plant in Northwest NM and the old question of who will pay to clean up abandoned oil and gas facilities in the 4 Corners and Permian Basin regions of the state.
Here & There	06/28/2021	2:35 p.m.	In a society where almost all our most successful people use everything from smart-ass lawyers to easily purchasable legislators to avoid paying a fair share of taxes, it should be no surprise how many cheaters abused the Paycheck Protection Program. Still, Lydia DePillis's reporting on PPP fraud for Pro Publica should be a moral wake-up call. How universal Donald Trump's definition of "being smart" by cheating the government has become!